

THE WAYNE PUBLIC LIBRARY PRESENTS...

Documentaries!

Monday,
April 30th
@ 2:00 p.m.

Farming in the Garden State is tough. It's even tougher without a tractor. In New Jersey, farmland is more expensive than anywhere else. It's not an easy place to try to start a career as a farmer. But for a new generation of farmers inspired by sustainability, everything seems possible. Even a farm powered by draft horses. Follow filmmaker Jared Flesher as he follows farmers Tom, Matt, and Aubrey out of the suburbs and back to the land. Way back.

Writer, Director & Editor:
Jared Flesher

Not rated

Runtime: 76 minutes

This event is free and no registration is required. Admission is on a first-come, first-serve basis. We invite you to bring your own refreshments and snacks.

Next documentary movie presentation:

Monday, April 30th @ 2:00 p.m.

The Farmer and the Horse